

Congressman Pence was among the first to make his earmark requests public on his website. This CNN story talks about which lawmakers made their requests public and which did not.